Michelle and her boyfriend

Cheng are two of the most talented officers in the Chinese police force. Michelle is invited to Hong Kong to help stop a cross-border crime, where she singlehandedly puts the villain behind bars. Cheng unexpectedly shows up. Lured by the promise of easy money, he has turned his talents to crime. Cheng plans to clean out the vaults of a major Hong Kong bank. Using his relationship with Michelle, he sends the police on a wild goose chase while he and his men go to work. At the last moment, Michelle and her task force arrive. Cheng escapes into the ventilation network of the cross-harbor rail system. Michelle follows. An explosion damages the shaft and the sea begins to pour in. The flood gates close, sealing them in the tunnel. They have to settle everything...now.
