

喋 血 雙
雄

The Killer

Fri., June 2 & Sat.,
June 10 at midnight;
Sat., June 3 at 11
a.m.

[John Woo series]

With this film, John Woo finally hit the international film circuit & received much deserved acclaim. Chow Yun-fat, as the mob assassin who accidentally blinds a cabaret singer (Sally Yeh), is the perfect combination of pathos & impenitent coldness. He is supported by Danny Lee as a disaffected cop who joins forces with Chow for the final blowout set in the candlelit calm of an abandoned church.

(1989, 137 min.)

喋
血
街
頭

Bullet in the Head

Fri., June 9 & Sat.,
June 17 at midnight;
Sat., June 10 at 11 a.m.

[John Woo series] Set primarily in 1960s
Vietnam, this John Woo elegy to wartime turmoil & political bankruptcy finds three Hong Kong friends (Tony Leung Chiu-wai, Jacky Cheung, & Waise Lee) caught in a treacherous web of illegal smuggling. The hardships & torturous conditions bring out the best & worst of the three whose friendship is torn apart by greed & explosive violence.

(1990, 136 min.)

The Days of Being
Dumb 阿飛與阿基

Fri., June 16 & Sat.,
June 24 at midnight;
Sat., June 17 at 11 a.m.

If a little levity is what you need after the John Woo Series, this gangster spoof is just the thing. Tony Leung Chiu-wai & Jacky Cheung, of Bullet in the Head fame, play a couple of triad flunkies with an unfortunate knack for jinxing their mobster bosses. Comic disaster permeates the film as do allusions to a pop culture obsessed with gangster flicks. But the car chases & explosions do their part to get the blood moving as every good mob movie should.
Directed by Blackie Ko.
(1992)

蓋死官

Justice, My Foot

Fri., June 23 & Sat.,
July 1 at midnight; Sat.,
June 24 at 11 a.m.

This comic period piece stars
Hong Kong funnyman, Stephen Chau as a court official whose heartless ways help him win cases but bring him bad luck. After the untimely death of yet another son, his wife, Anita Mui, convinces him to reverse his karma & turn over a new leaf. But being nice doesn't come easy as chaos & comedy ensue. (1992, 99 min.)

Heroic Trio 東方三俠

Fri., June 30 & Sat.,
July 8 at midnight; Sat.,
July 1 at 11 a.m.

Bringing Hong Kong beauties, Michelle Khan, Anita Mui & Maggie Cheung, together for the first time, this futuristic chopsocky is a mind-boggling combination of Bladerunner & Batman. The three superheroines battle it out with a power-crazed scientist bent on kidnapping babies for his evil scheme to reinstall the emperor. Co-directed by Johnny To & kung fu veteran, Ching Siu-tung.

(1993, 88 min.)

